New Building Tours Available

Intro to Kalamazoo Valley, offered through Faculty and Staff Development, is required for all full and part-time employees. The workshop introduces employees to the Kalamazoo Valley community - who we are, where we've been and where we're going. The revamped three-hour workshop is held at the Texas Townships Campus.

Additionally, new Valley Campus Tours allow employees to tour all of the college's buildings – the Groves Center, Anna Whitten Hall and the Center for New Media, Kalamazoo Valley Museum, Food Innovation Center, and the Culinary and Allied Health Building separately. Each tour lasts one hour and must be registered for separately. These tours are designed to help employees understand the full depth and breadth of each institution. Participate in Online Training, Earn Money for Student Veterans

Michigan has seen a 17% increase in students using Veterans Affairs benefits to pursue higher education since 2010's Post 9/11 GI Bill was enacted. As we seek to best support this growing cohort of students, it is imperative that our campus's educators understand the possible challenges student veterans face in their transition to academic and civilian life.

With financial support from the Consortium of Michigan Veterans Educators' (CMVE) Kresge Foundation grant, all public colleges and universities in Michigan have free, unlimited access to Veterans on Campus, an online training simulation aimed at helping us better understand and support our student veterans. In this 30-minute web-based course, participants will better understand the unique value of veterans in the classroom, learn skills that will equip you to understand common challenges faced by veterans, and better understand support services available for veterans. Participants will also learn how to approach the veterans they are worried about, destigmatize the need for help, and refer them to local support services.

Kalamazoo Valley's Veteran Services Office will be awarded $500 if 118 employees participate in the training. Thank you for helping us ensure our veterans have the best educational experiences possible at Kalamazoo Valley Community College.

STRENGTH SPOTLIGHT

As a strengths-based organization, Kalamazoo Valley gives its employees the opportunity to develop their strengths by building on their greatest talents – the way in which they most naturally think, feel, and behave as unique individuals.

In upcoming issues of KV Focus Plus, we will highlight one of the 34 different signature themes as identified by the Clifton StrengthsFinder Inventory as well as the names and titles of different people within the college who share it as their number one strength so you can learn more about the people you interact with on a daily basis.

This Issue: Intellection

Those with the intellection strength like to think. They like mental activity. They like exercising the muscles of their brain, stretching them in multiple directions. They are the kind of person who enjoys their time alone because it's their time for musing and reflection. They are introspective. This introspection may lead to a slight sense of discontent as they compare what they are actually doing with all the thoughts and ideas that their mind conceives.

The genius of the intellection talent stems from the quality of thinking. Those with this strength think about ideas, concepts, and principles in great depth. This results in deep learning, deep understanding, and deep appreciation for the best knowledge. The greatest aspect of the intellection talent is the wisdom that is gained from the in-depth thinking and internal discussions. They can think by themselves for hours but never doubt what results: wisdom, clarity, and a firm foundation for action planning and decision making.

Did you know that Math Faculty Darlene Kohrman, PT Tutor Jason Givhan, and Librarian Russel Barnes are among the faculty and staff who have intellection as their number one strength? Click here to learn more
