

May 14, 2021

Congratulations!

Earlier this month, the college received formal notification and official record from the Higher Learning Commission regarding our request to offer the Business Administration associate of arts degree in an online format. This provides huge opportunities regarding our online programs and services for the future.

I want to thank all of those who worked diligently to make this good news possible. As we continue to respond to the changing needs of our students, we will explore many options for quality instruction and services.

As some faculty and staff members are teaching and providing student services this summer, many of us are planning time away from the college for well-deserved vacations. If you have vacation days available, I encourage you to schedule time away from your work responsibilities for rest and relaxation. Please discuss your work schedule and plans with your supervisor to make a plan for time away from the college. If you are teaching this summer, make sure students are aware of when you will be checking messages to insure you also have some time away to recharge.

While you are on vacation, really be on vacation. This means, except in a case of unusual circumstance, resist the urge to check your email messages, voice mail messages and refrain from checking in with others. If something comes up, we know how to contact you. Relax, release and recharge on vacation.

Throughout these summer months, I urge you to become fully vaccinated and continue to practice health and safety protocols. Creating and maintaining a safe environment is a responsibility shared by all.

Enjoy summer semester!

Sincerely,

Summer Hours Begin Next Week

With an eye toward energy conservation, moderating cooling costs and benefiting employees, it has been determined that the college will again adopt a four-day workweek during the time frame below:

Summer Hours
May 17 - August 13, 2021
Monday - Thursday
7:30 a.m. - 5 p.m.
(with 1/2 hour for lunch)

We are well aware that information technologies, facilities services, public safety, financial services and other departments with evening hours will adjust schedules to ensure coverage of important functions.

In cooperation with the department supervisor, individuals may be able to adjust their four-day work week schedule to Monday through Thursday 8 a.m. - 5:30 p.m.

Employees who have earned paid vacation time will take that time in half-day blocks (4.5 hours) or full-day blocks (9.0 hours). This is pro-rated for employees working less than 40 hours per week.

Maintaining exemplary services for our students and guests throughout this summer work schedule is a high priority. For additional questions, please contact Amy Louallen.

INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY

KalamazooVALLEY[™]
community college

Don't Be Fooled

Cybercrime is real and sophisticated criminals are targeting the college. Hackers are getting smarter and more persistent, tricking even college educated individuals into providing information to be used against them and the college.

We need your help:

- If an email message contains information or a request that looks unusual or is out of character for the person allegedly sending it to you, do not click on it; do not respond to the message. Dr. Washington, Dr. Eagan nor any other college employee is going to ask you for favors, personal identification information or to purchase gift cards, period.
- Review your email messages on a desktop computer. Reviewing email messages on a cell phone does not allow you to closely examine the sender name or point of origin.
- If a message looks suspicious, using your mouse, "hover" over the "sender name" to discern if the message is genuine, look for typos, incomplete or unusual sender addresses.
- If you have any doubts about the authenticity of an email message, do not respond. If a message is legit, you will be contacted again.
- Mark any suspicious messages as spam. By marking the message as spam, I.T. is automatically notified.
- Never share your personal information with anyone via email.

Soon, you will receive a legitimate email from me about your required participation in cybersecurity awareness training. You are the first, last and best defense in keeping your personal information and the college data safe from theft.

Do not be fooled.

Sincerely,

Tim Welsh

PRESIDENT'S OFFICE

Tracy Labadie, Ed.D. has been named Associate Vice President for Collaboration, Compliance and Analytics. Tracy joined Kalamazoo Valley in January 2020 as Dean of Professional Trades, Business and Public Services.

Tracy's extensive career both in and out of higher education includes work in public accounting and auditing before she joined Glen Oaks Community College as Controller. She soon discovered her passion for the classroom and completed an Ed.D. in Community College Leadership at Ferris State University. Prior to joining Kalamazoo Valley, she was the Assistant Dean of Academic Affairs at Lansing Community College, serving as the Accreditation Officer and as a member of the college's Board Policy Review team responsible for updating Board of Trustee policies and end statements. She will continue her work as a Dean until a replacement has been identified.

Gene Haas Foundation Presents Scholarship Funds to Kalamazoo Valley Community College

Fred Schultz from Gerotech, on behalf of the Gene Haas Foundation, presented a $15,000 check for manufacturing-related student scholarships to Kalamazoo Valley faculty member Bill Kring, Provost Paige Eagan, Ph.D. and President L. Marshall Washington, Ph.D.

The Gene Haas Foundation's primary goal is to build skills in the machining industry by providing scholarships for CNC machine technology students. Students chosen to receive these scholarships will be awarded $500 to $2,500 per semester. Scholarship funds can be used for tuition, books and small personal tools that students are required to purchase for the program.

Manufacturing employers are desperate for skilled workers, according to Engineering Design and Manufacturing Technology faculty member Bill Kring. He says he receives phone calls almost daily from area employers who want to hire skilled trades workers. "The biggest need is in CNC and electro-mechanical maintenance-type positions," Kring said.

Because the EDMT staff work closely to tailor their curriculum and lab equipment to local industry standards, Kring is confident that Kalamazoo Valley students are well prepared to enter the workforce upon graduation.

"From beginning to advanced, we're equipped to serve our students quite well," Kring said. "When our students leave us, they're ready for work. I'm quite confident that they're going to become some of the most valuable employees in any company. They can go to work in a host of capacities and they're going to be some of the best."

Did You Know?

The Kalamazoo Valley Museum is operated by Kalamazoo Valley Community College and governed by its Board of Trustees, which means every time you visit the museum in person or access its virtual programs, you are also visiting the college!

From its beginning in 1881 as a collection of curiosities in the public library basement, the museum has always been a tax-funded museum. Until 1984, the museum remained a department of the Kalamazoo Public Library. From 1984 to 1991, the museum received its operating support from the Kalamazoo City School District. In 1991, the museum became part of Kalamazoo Valley Community College and gained the support of the community through a charter millage.

In February 1996, the current 60,000 square foot facility was opened on the college's Arcadia Commons Campus. It was funded by a $19.6 million private capital campaign that included contributions ranging from $10 to $4.5 million.

In cooperation with the college, museum staff works to develop cultural, historical and scientific literacy through innovative exhibits, special exhibitions, planetarium programs, educational programs and family events. As a point of pride, the museum is accredited by the American Alliance of Museums.

Beyond the Book Club with Denise Miller and Cheryl Almeda

For our next discussion, we will be reading Fortunes by Peter Ho Davies.

(<https://www.amazon.com/Fortunes-Peter-Ho-Davies/dp/0544263707>) This story chronicles the lives of 4 Chinese Americans who are seeking to fit into the American landscape. Through fiction, we can appreciate these four stand-alone stories: Ah Ling (who came for the Gold Rush), Anna May Wong (the first Chinese film star in Hollywood), Vincent Chin (facing disgruntled auto workers who mistake him for being Japanese) and John Ling Smith (a half Chinese man who looks at his heritage when he returns to China).

The FSC and our library will be purchasing books; please reach out if you're interested in picking one up!

Please join us on Friday, June 25, 10 - 11:15 a.m. via Zoom.

STUDENT PROFILE

KalamazooVALLEY[™]
community college

Student Profile: Robert Koss

Schoolcraft resident Robert Koss worked for years in the ink industry and switched to working with corrugated board before enrolling in classes at Kalamazoo Valley Community College. The father of two elementary school-aged children and a middle schooler now works as a part-time electrical lab assistant at the college and is completing his electrical technician degree.

"I came to Kalamazoo Valley because I wanted to change my career," Koss said. While working at International Paper, he developed an interest in the electrical technology field. "I took a test at work and there was a lot that I wasn't familiar with. I knew I needed to get some more education. That's what propelled me."

He's been a Kalamazoo Valley student since 2017. He and his wife Kelly have adjusted to his shift from full-time employee to part-time employee and part-time student. Accommodating their children's online schooling has been an added challenge. "We've come a long way," Koss said. "We've learned to value our time and make sure we're scheduling things as well as possible." more
